PREPARING FOR WAR.

Public and Private Houses in Rome are Being Fortified Against the Expected Anarchist Mob.

ROME, April 25.—The authorities today began the work of barricading the residences of officials and also the banks. This is done in view of the disturbances which occurred yesterday, and of the apprehension of more serious disturbances today. The working classes are greatly stirred up by the prospect of a renewal of the flour tax, this being used as an argument to animate them against the government. The extreme socialists are very active, and besides appealing to the prejudices against the monied and upper classes, they have enlisted the sympathy and cooperation of the irredentist agitators. Threats are freely uttered against the Austrians and there is reason to fear that in the event of a riot, the Austrian embassy would be assailed. For this reason the lower windows of the Austrian embassy are being walled up strongly enough to prevent any assailants from entering or shooting into the embassy. The members and servants of the embassy are armed, and every preparation has been made to give a deadly reception of a mob. Feeling against the Austrians is running very high, partly because of the close friendship shown between the vatican and the Austrian court. King Humbert has given particular instructions to protect the embassy from violence, and the troops of the garrison are kept ready to go to the rescue at the first sign of danger. The preparations made by the authorities are so extensive and serious that the public are more alarmed thereby than by the threats and demonstrations of the anarchists. The opinion prevails that these preparations would not be made unless the authorities had information of a dangerous conspiracy which they have not made public. The greatest uneasiness prevails and people of means are secreting their valuables and following the example of the officials in making their residences ready to offer some resistance to a mob, in case of attack. Access to the palaces of the nobility is made extremely difficult, especially of the nobility known to adhere to the vatican, and galleries of paintings and statuary that have heretofore been readily accessible to visitors are now surrounded with safe guards that are both novel and inconvenient. The military authorities have doubled the guard where arms and munitions are stored, as it is feared that the anarchists may try to create a panic in advance of an uprising by causing an explosion similar to that which shook Rome to its foundations about a year ago. It is known that the officials have been extremely reticent for some time past, while at the same time quietly making the preparations, of which today's work is the open continuation. This reticence, it is reported, has been inspired by a desire not to deter visitors from coming to Rome. The situation is now, however, so serious, and the danger of an outbreak so pressing, that steps are being taken to meet the peril without any concealment whatever.

O'BRIEN IN CHICAGO.

The King of Bunko Men Said to be in Hiding in the Windy City.

CHICAGO, April 25.—On the information of a saloon keeper, who declares he saw the man in South Chicago, central station officers were detailed to search that part of the city yesterday for "Bunko" O'Brien, who escaped his guards on the way to Sing Sing last Thursday. The information was of a positive nature, and additional weight was lent by the fact that South Chicago contains numerous friends of the "king of bunko men." A thorough search in all his accustomed haunts failed to find any trace of O'Brien, and it is believed that if he is in Chicago he is keeping in close hiding, and will find it convenient to take an early opportunity to move his quarters to another city. The numerous occasions on which he has been arrested in this city have given many of the officers a thorough acquaintance with his appearance, and it appears likely that he will find Chicago too warm for comfort.

HAVE A FIGHT.

The Indians and Negroes of San Blas End a Dispute in Blood.

NEW YORK, April 25.—A Panama dispatch says that war is imminent between the Cuna Indians in San Blas and Spanish negroes from Carthagena, who invaded the district and appropriated ivory, nuts, rubber and other produce and drove out the Indians from that territory. The origin of the trouble is said to be the decree of the government forbidding direct trade between San Blas and the United States, compelling all vessels to first go to Carthagena where their goods are sold to the middle men and their cargoes procured.

DAIRY BARN BURNED.

Twenty-four Cows and Thirteen Horses Perish in the Flames.

PARKVILLE, L. I., April 25.—The four large stables on the dairy farm of the Cheshire Improvement company, together with twenty four cows, thirteen horses and an immense quantity of feed, were burned at an early hour this morning. The loss is roughly estimated at $60,000.

A PEACEMAKER KILLED.

Andrew Saunders Stops a Family Row, But Loses His Life.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 25.—Yesterday afternoon Lizzie Foster and her husband were having a row at their home in the Fourth ward and the woman had a gun with which she was threatening her husband. Andrew Saunders, an aged man, appeared upon the scene in the role of a peacemaker, and was shot and killed by the woman, having the top of his head blown off. The woman claims the killing was accidental and gave herself up to the authorities.

BOLD TOUGHS.

A Gang of Them Attempt to Rob a Kansas Pacific Passenger Train, But Fail.

WALLACE, Kan., April 25.—The remnant of a gang of toughs that has been hanging around Wallace made an attempt to rob the west bound passenger train on the Kansas Pacific here last night. Late in the evening several citizens were run to their homes at the point of a pistol. As the train pulled in at 11 15 p. m. the gang at the station demanded the money box of the operator, but by suddenly extinguishing the light and concealing the cash, he saved the money, but came within an ace of losing his life, for a bullet went crashing past his head. The robbers then turned their attention to the train. Hearing the pistol shot at the station the passengers were on their guard before the train stopped, and as the robbers attempted to board the train the passengers met them with drawn weapons. Several shots were exchanged, rocks and track bolts were hurled against the windows by the robbers during the melee, and seventeen plate-glass windows were shattered in the coaches. An infant was seriously injured by a rock and shattered glass falling on ist head. While the excitement was at its heighth the train pulled out. After firing again at the station house the toughs mounted their horses and fled south. The sheriff and a posse are in pursuit.

A NEW LABOR ORGANIZATION.

The National Shirt Trade Association Springs Into Existence.

NEW YORK, April 25.—A national convention of shirt makers, shirt cutters and laundry workers, the first of its kind in this country, was held Saturday in the Florence building on First street and Second avenue. Fifty delegates from the largest cities in the United States were present. A national association was formed. It will be called the National Shirt Trade association. The first convention of this new association will be held in Philadelphia on September 4. Father James O. S. Huntington was the principal speaker at the convention. He said that he was strongly in favor of trades unions. He advocated the formation of "boards of concilliation," to be composed of employers and employes, for the purpose of adjusting disputes and avoiding strikes and boycotts. Referring to his work in the tenement house district of this city, Father Huntington said that he had a plan by which he hoped that the people who lived in tenement houses would be able to bring to the attention of the wealthy men and women of this city their exact condition. He said that he had made arrangements to go with a large number of men and women who live in tenement houses to the homes of some of the wealthiest persons in the city on Saturday instead of waiting for the rich to visit the poor in their homes. Many wealthy persons were, he said, interested in the scheme, which he believed would result in arousing the interest of those who are able to carry out some long cherished reforms in the construction of houses for poor people.

PAULUS RETIRES.

A Change in the Management of the Rich Hotel.

F D Paulus, who for two years past has been associated with Harry Harrison in conducting the Rich hotel, retired today, having disposed of his interests to William T. Jackson, the well known engineer on the Fort Wayne road. Mr. Harrison will have the management of the house, Mr. Jackson retaining his position on the road. Mr. Paulus made a pleasant landlord and he leaves with the best wishes of many patrons of the house, who would like to see him meet with success in whatever undertaking he may engage. Messrs Harrison and Jackson are genial and enterprising gentlemen. Mr Harrison being a practical hotel man, will have a better opportunity to cater to the wants of the Rich's patrons than he ever had before. Lacey Weesner, the agreeable and clever young man who filled the position of night clerk, will be transferred to day duty.

The president will be unable to be present at the banquet, as he will leave New York for Washington Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Sunday Rest League will hold an important meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tonight.

BISHOP M'DONNELL.

All Brooklyn Turns Out to See the Popular Monsignor Consecrated —A Beautiful Ceremony.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The new chimes of St Patrick's Cathedral rang out this morning in honor of Brooklyn's new bishop, Monsignor Charles E McDonnell. The immense assemblage of Catholics were massed in front of the edifice, slowly making its way into the vast interior where one of the most imposing ceremonies of the church, the consecration of a bishop, was in progress. Prominent clergy and laymen from all over the country were there to participate in the ceremonies. Since the consecration of Bishop O'Farrell, of Trenton, eleven years ago, no such ceremony has taken place. At 10 o'clock the procession of priests and bishops, headed by the cross bearers, attended by acolytes, passed from the sacristy to the sanctuary. As the procession moved on, Professor Pechor, organist, played a march from orchestra and organ. The spectacle was one of extraordinary brilliancy and the vast audience, standing in pews, viewed the splendid pageantry of surpliced acolytes and priests and prelates robed in their vestments of purple and gold, with that eager expectancy that marks all assemblages at the opening of great ceremonials. And when the actors in this solem but magnificent ceremony had bowed low before the altar and disposed themselves in orderly groupings about the chancel, prepared to begin the performanse of the rites prescribed for the elevation and consecration of a priest as bishop, the congregation began to realize the magnificent ceremonial that was to follow. Archbishop Corrigan was the consecrator and the celebrant of the solem pontifical mass, during which the ceremony of consecrating the bishop-elect was performed. The assistant consecrators were the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. McQuaide, bishop of Rochester, and the Right Rev. Francis Silas Chattard, bishop of Vincennes, Ind., formerly rector of the American college at Rome, who ordained Dr. McDonnell to the priesthood in May, 1878. The chancel choir of surpliced boys, augmented by about fifty priests and laymen, under the direction of the Rev. John A. Kelnor, sang in Gregorian chant the responses, the office of consecration and the sanctuts and agnus dei of the mass. The regular choir of the cathedral, consisting of the quartotte, assisted by an augmented choir of seventy-five voices, under the direction of Professor W. F. Pechor, sang the mass of Kallivooda, specially arranged for the occasion. After the archbishop had been duly vested at his throne, on the gospel side of the altar, he proceeded to a stool placed in the middle of the grand altar and sat down. Bishop-elect McDonnell vested in amice, alb, circture and red stole, and wearing his black baretta or cap, was led from his chapel between the assistant bishops, McQuaide and Chatard, also vested and mitred, and on coming before the archbishop uncovered his head and made a profound bow. Then he and the bishops took seats and a moment later the ceremonial services of the consecration were opened by Archbishop Corrigan and Bishop McQuaide.

TRIPLE MURDER.

George Moore Shoots His Wife, Edward McClelland and Himself.

DENNISON, Ohio, April 25.—At 6.30 this morning George Moore shot his wife, killing her instantly. He then shot Edward McClelland, a saloon keeper, badly wounding him and then fatally shot himself. Moore is employed by the Pan Handle railway company and works at night. McClelland is a saloon keeper and boarded at Moore's house. Moore and his wife had had a great deal of trouble lately, growing out of the suspicion on Moore's part, that his wife was maintaining improper relations with McClelland. When Moore returned from work this morning, he found his wife sitting at work at her sewing machine. Without saying a word he drew a revolver and shot her through the head, killing her instantly. He then ran into an adjoining room where McClelland was sleeping and fired two shots at him, one striking him in the forehead. Moore then ran from the house to the residence of his mother-in-law, near by, and shot himself through the head and is now dying.

SCOUNDRELS AT WORK.

A Catholic Church Stoned and the Audience Endangered.

DUBLIN, April 25.—A flagrant outrage was perpetrated last evening at Edenderry, near Portadown, about ten miles from Armagh. Several miscreants, supposed to belong to an orange lodge in that vicinity, attacked the chapel at a time when there was no chance for any one to protect it and smashed the doors and windows. The priest at the time was officiating at the evening services, and a volley of stones were thrown through a window, one of them nearly striking his nose. An attempt was made to catch the scoundrels, but they succeeded in making their escape, crying "down with the pope," and other ribald remarks, evidently intended to lacerate the feelings of the worshipers. This is not the first time that outrages have been committed at this chapel. On several previous occasions, within the past few months, windows have been smashed and doors damaged. The trouble is said to have originated in an attack on an orange procession on the last anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, the orange men having been taken unawares, and terribly thrashed by a crowd armed with shillalahs. One of them was captured, it is said, and compelled to drink to the Pope's health. This is the one who is suspected of being the leader of the chapel outrages.

A TEMPERANCE SERMON.

Rev. Eldridge Speaks Strongly Upon the Liquor Traffic.

Rev G N Eldridge, the pastor of the Wayne street M E church, preached a strong sermon last evening on the theme: "The Curse of the Liquor Traffic and What are You Going to Do About It?"

Before commencing he said he would let a young man in the audience, who had been a victim to the power of strong drink, but who had been saved by the institutions for the cure of drunkenness, give his experience and allow him to suggest the text for the sermon of the evening.

He introduced Mr. Ketchum, an intelligent young gentleman from New York state who had taken treatment in this city. The young man took the pulpit and said he was a living witness of the terrible evil wrought by rum. He had started out in life with bright prospects for a brilliant and useful future, but had sold his birthright for liquor. Step by step it had wound its blighting influence about him, and, in spite of the prayers of mother, the influence of friends and the entreaties of wife, it had sent him down to ruin, placed him behind prison bars and at last in an insane asylum, but now he was saved, and, after ten worse than wasted years, he was commencing life over again, trusting in a Savior's love. He would give as the text for the evening sermon, "It bitteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."

With this forcible illustration Rev Eldridge arose and commenced his sermon, adding to the text given him by the young men this one: "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink." He spoke of the terrible curse that intemperance has been and is in the land, the sin and crime it has brought, and the ruin and misery it has caused. There is no man, he said, who could offer a single legitimate excuse for carrying on the liquor traffic, because there was none. It was wrong, and those who engaged in it would be held responsible in the eyes of God and men for the death and destruction that they are dealing out to the world for profit. There is not one redeeming feature about the whole business.

While it may be possible that alcohol was required in the arts and sciences, and was necessary in extreme cases as a medicine, yet as a beverage there was not one single good reason for its use." "I would as soon put a devil into my home," said the speaker, "as to place there a physician who deals largely in the prescribing of whisky as a medicine."

The pastor then spoke at length upon the evils of intoxicating liquor, and of different phases of the temperance question, ending by giving prohibition as the only logical remedy for its evils. He defended prohibition as consistent with personal liberty, and replied to many of the arguments advanced that "prohibition did not prohibit." Prohibition prohibits, he said, just as civilization civilizes, Christianity christianizes or education educates. These three last named instrumentalities have been given centuries to operate and yet they have not redeemed the entire world. Because prohibition in a few years does not entirely prohibit, people are found who are ready to denounce it as a failure. He believed that if it was given time that prohibition would prove itself to be the solution of the liquor question. The trouble was not with the law, but with the enforcement of it, and when men would vote to put into offices no one but those who would execute the temperance laws in force they would soon find that prohibition would work in any state where such laws were on the statute books.

SENATOR GORMAN.

The Maryland Statesman in the Presidential Race.

BALTIMORE, April 25.—There is no longer any doubt that Senator Gorman is a candidate for president. The leading politicians in this state admit the fact, and although Cleveland has been indorsed by the clubs, the very men who were instrumental in effecting these endorsements now say that Gorman will be nominated at Chicago. Charles J. McAlees, one of the best informed of the political leaders, placed a big bet here Saturday that Cleveland would not get the nomination. Senator Gibson, than whom none is closer to Senator Gorman, as he ought to be, as he owes his election to the senate to him, was here last night. When asked point blank if Mr Gorman is a candidate for the nomination, he hesitated before replying. He weighed his words and then said: "Mr. Gorman never told me that he was a candidate, but his friends are all very anxious to see him a candidate." A statement like this on the part of Mr. Gibson is regarded as a virtual admission of Mr. Gorman's candidacy.

YELLOW FEVER.

Two of the Imberhorne's Crew Die With the Dread Disease.

Eight seamen were down with the disease after leaving Rio, but all recovered.

WOOED—WON—WEDDED.

Cupid Goes Hunting and With Unerring Aim Sends Love Shafts Home With Accuracy.

Deputy Sheriff Tom Wilkinson and wife have just been apprised of a matrimonial secret that has existed since last July. The secret was told them by the bride, none other than their pretty and interesting daughter Maude, who was secretly married to Thomas E. Dascomb, the ceremony taking place at Columbus, Ohio. The groom is a worthy young man and a book-keeper at the electric works. The young couple received the blessing of parents and congratulations of their friends are being showered upon them. Mr and Mrs Dascomb will be "at home" at 46 West Wayne street.

James English, a well known Allen county farmer, living near Hoagland, was married to Mrs. Electa S. Wadge three weeks ago, but the matter was kept quiet until Saturday.

The marriage of Henry Kappel and Miss Mary Lauer will be celebrated at the St. Mary's church on the morning of May 10. A reception will follow at 182 East Washington street, where the bride and groom will make their future home.

The engagement of Miss Myrtle, daughter of Mr. and Mr. Joseph Hansen, of South Broadway, to Frank Basset is announced. The wedding will take place in the near future.

WILL NOT BE HARRISON.

Vice President Morton Talks on the Presidential Situation.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Vice President Levi P. Morton has been in the metropolis since Friday, looking over the national political field. He expressed today to a friend the positive belief that the Minneapolis convention will act on the one term principle and make an entirely new ticket. He is so strong in this belief that he has given an order to a real estate man to look him up during the summer, when prices of houses are low, a new town house in the fashionable part of New York on the east side of Fifth avenue along Central park.

Mr. Morton's opinion as to the presidential ticket has been formed by close touch with republicans in Washington, and his knowledge of New York state republican politics and sentiment. The gentleman to whom he told his views, in talking with a press representative, said: "The vice president has seen in New York the certain signs that the republicans of this state do not want Harrison for a candidate again. As he has heard from other states the same relation of the president's unpopular personality, he has formed the decided opinion that the national convention will not renominate the ticket of 1888.

The letter of withdrawal as a candidate as written by Mr. Blaine is what has virtually destroyed Harrison. It left the president the leading candidate by long odds, with a possibility that he might get the nomination by acclamation. Just as soon as there appeared to be a certainty of his running again, republicans from the various states which must be carried to elect a republican president, began to compare notes at Washington, New York, and state capitals.

"These conferences have resulted in a general and wide-spread and overwhelming conviction that Harrison can not carry the states and electoral votes necessary to his re-election. This is the situation as it stands today, and uninstructed delegates are being sent to Minneapolis from so many northern states who will express this sentiment at the convention, that in spite of the claims from Washington that the president will have no opposition in the convention, it is more probable he will be defeated there if his name is not withdrawn."

ALMOST FATAL QUARREL.

George Rogers Receives a Bullet Wound in the Head.

Early Sunday morning there was almost a tragedy at the Boot Jack saloon west of the city. A young sport of this city, whose name could not be learned, drove out to the saloon accompanied by a girl known at the Boot Jack. As the sport was driving away from the resort he was hailed by George Rogers a brickyard employe. Rogers called him several times. This enraged the sport. He pulled out a revolver and said: "You cannot insult a lady in my presence," and fired a shot from his revolver. The bullet struck Rogers on the forehead, but, glancing, did not penetrate the skull. The wounded man was taken to Dr. McCaskey's office where the bullet was removed and the wound dressed. It seems miraculous that the shot did not prove fatal.

COURT CALENDAR.

Cases Which Have Been Commenced in the Different Courts.

John and H W Shafer have commenced suit in Justice France's court against Geo W Weaver for possession of premises and $30 damages. The case is set for hearing at 9 o'clock next Saturday.

Benj F. Geiger and Jennie E Weerick, Samuel Lantz and Jennie Evard, Alpheus D Rensberger and Carrie A. Heina, August Savieo and Julia Koach, Werner Bramigk and Wilhelmina Foellinger have been licensed to wed.

Hannah Blode has commenced suit in Justice Ryan's court against Dr. Ph Blade and the Ryan Trucking company to recover possession of household goods which had been stored by them with the company. The doctor's wife, the plaintiff in the suit, had left the city some time ago to visit friends and it was then that the goods were stored. Since then the doctor and his wife have had domestic trouble and do not agree, hence a seperation has taken place. Upon her return to the city she demanded the goods, but the doctor refused to allow her to have them. The present suit is to try the right of property.

There was a bunch of four Sunday drunks in police court this morning. The first one to be called before the mayor was Jacob Oppenheim, who was arrested by Officer Knack. The second one was Jacob Shaff, arrested by Officer Daseler. The third was Amos Monderland, arrested by Officer Knack, and the fourth was Henry Houck, arrested by Officer Daseler. The last named prisoner insisted that he wasn't drunk, but only sick. He was arrested in his boarding house on Duck alley, where he had been stumbling over the chairs, which he says was because he was dizzy from the effects of medicine which he had been taking. Monderland was an old soldier. He had come from the Soldier's Home at Marion, and was spending his thirty days' furlough with his with his relatives in this city. He, too, insisted that he had been sick and was troubled with catarrh. The mayor sent all four of the prisoners to jail.

The supreme court of Indiana Saturday handed down decisions by Judge Elliott reversing the decisions of the Wabash circuit court in eight cases instituted by George W. Ewing against real estate owners in Wabash county. The decision effects lands conveyed by the father of Geo. Ewing III, of this city, to his father, George W. Ewing I, in trust for the benefit of himself and heirs. After the marriage of George W. Ewing II his father reconveyed the same real estate back to him. These lands afterwards became involved in litigation, other claimants laying title to them. The decision Saturday is a victory for young George Ewing III and unless facts not apparent on the face of the deeds are proven sufficient to sustain such attempted reconveyance, all those lands will be recovered by the young millionaire. Some of the old Ewing estate in this city comes under the ruling—in fact, the Ewing estates all over Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Wisconsin are involved, and if the Indiana court holds that Mr Ewing can recover the lands he will come into possession of property in Fort Wayne, St Louis, Evansville, Chicago, St. Paul and a hundred other points, because the original sale was void and without authority.

CITIZENS REASON.

If You Desire Continuance of Frequent Low Rates.

Appreaciate the efforts of the initial road by patronizing the special train arranged to leave Fort Wayne at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning from Nickel Plate depot for Chicago, and thus ignore the "dog in the manger policy" of the great line which never gives low rates only when forced.

Messrs J. D Evans, F. W. Urbahns, Harry Pickard, LeRoy Hartzel and Mr McClelland went to Maysville on their bicycles yesterday and dined at the Starr house. They made the trip going out in exactly an hour and thirty minutes and returning made it in fifteen minutes less time. Maysville is situated sixteen miles from Fort Wayne.

J. P. Morgan, who for some time past was train baggageman on the Fort Wayne road, has been promoted to passenger conductor and went out on his first run on No. 1 today. J. P. is a popular and faithful employe and deserves the promotion.

Mr and Mrs. Diedrich Meyer arrived home today from Warsaw, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. P Cooper.

The funeral will take place at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the house.

WHO WILL IT BE?

The Democratic Congressional Convention Tomorrow.

The democratic congressional convention for this district will be held at Kendallville tomorrow for the purpose of nominating a candidate for congress.

There are three candidates: P. S. O'Rourke and J. M Robinson, of this city, and W. F. McNagny, of Columbia City, and it is possible some dark horse may be sprung into the race.

The candidates have been in the field for several months, and the campaign has been an active one, as each of the candidates have made a vigorous canvass.

There will be 106 delegates in the convention and fifty-four will be necessary for a choice. Allen county has forty-eight delegates, and if she should unite on one candidate, would need only six more votes to secure the nomination.

A large crowd left this city this afternoon and a large number more leave this evening and early tomorrow morning. The following left this afternoon: Judge C. M Dawson, Hon. P. S O'Rourke, J. M. Robinson, Prosecuting Attorney Colerick, Hon J. M Barrett, 'Squire Harry France, Chief of Police Wilkinson, S. M Foster, W. G. Colerick, Michael Bohen, Dr Metcalf, Mayor Zollinger and Sheriff Viberg.

SMALL POX.

New Cases Appear in New York With Distressing Regularity.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Franke Burke, twenty-eight years old, was found suffering from small pox this morning at 237 East Fifty-sixth street, a house where several persons affected with the dread disease have already been found. Burke was removed to North Brothers' island. One death from small pox is reported from the island this morning.

IN MEMORIAM.

Written by Johnny F. Redding in memory of Johnny T. Mencer, who died April 11, 1892.

This lovely bud so young, so fair,
Called hence by early doom,
Just came to show how sweet a flower
In paradise would bloom.

Ere sin could harm, or sorrow fade,
Death came with friendly care,
The opening bud to heaven conveyed,
And bade it blossom there.

Col. Hurd was taken suddenly ill with a congestive chill at the government building today and was conveyed to his room.

With the man of business it is push that wins—with the politicians, pull.

DE FOE.

[illegible]

1731—Daniel De Foe, author of "Robinson Crusoe," died.

1743—Edmund Cartwright, inventor of the power loom, was born, died 1823. This great benefactor of the race was born near Wakefield, England; he was designed for the church; entered, he eventually took orders and obtained the "living" of Brampton and afterward that of Goadby-Marwood. His invention of the power loom was made in 1785, as has so often been the case regarding labor saving machinery, the working people were at first bitterly opposed to the introduction of the new looms, and 400 of them were destroyed; he wrote some good verses.

1778—Thomas Addis Emmet, Irish patriot, born in Cork; died 1827.

1862—Admiral Farragut passed the forts below New Orleans.

1864—Fighting at Birmingham, Miss.

1864—Cavalry battle at Jacksonport, Ark.

1877—Senator William Brownlow ("Parson") died, born 1805.

1891—Field Marshal Von Moltke died in Berlin, aged 90.

THIS week and month ends next Saturday.

INDIANA'S governor was entertained in Fort Wayne yesterday.

THE grand weather yesterday brought out the church goers in force.

THE city election occurs one week from tomorrow and voters are studying the relative merits of councilmanic candidates.

W. Q. JUDGE, who lectured in this city about a year ago, has been elected president of the Theosophical societies of the United States.

REV. D. M. HAZLETT, one of the editors of the Mid-Continent, delivered a masterly sermon at the Third Presbyterian church yesterday morning.

THE democratic congressional convention meets at Kendallville tomorrow. Will the nominee be McNagny, Robinson or O'Rourke, or will it be a dark horse?

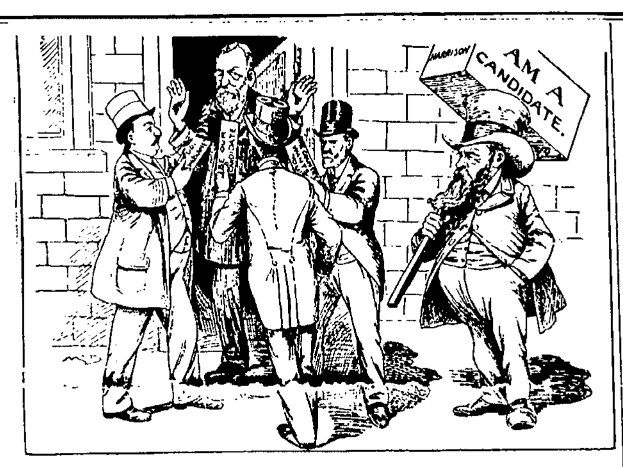
THE republicans of Wayne township and South Wayne will meet in the federal court room next Saturday afternoon to elect state, county and congressional delegates.

MR. V. D. BOZANKY, a young man from Bulgaria, a student in the medical department of Ann Arbor university, spoke at the city department Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon and also at the Grace church in the evening, delivering interesting addresses at both services.

A WRITER in the New York Press has the following about the "horrid men," and, for the sake of avoiding an argument, we will admit that it is true "Talk about women gossips, they are jewels compared to the male representatives of that order, and I am about ready to confess that the men who gossip outnumber the women who engage in that occupation two to one. That they are worse can be demonstrated."

SECRETARY BLAINE decided to send an interesting exhibit to the World's fair at Chicago. It will consist of the original declaration of independence, the constitution of the United States, the articles of federation, the famous protest of the Philadelphia Carpenters' company to King George III and other documents which are the heirlooms of the country itself, of our national history. These will not be shown by fac simile, but by the originals. They will be shipped in steel caskets and guarded by soldiers while en route and at the fair. This is very proper, but it is so like Blaine.

THE Louisiana state lottery has been the colossal crime of our free institutions during the last quarter of a century, and it will be most grateful intelligence to every good citizen throughout the land to know that it has been finally overthrown by the people of that state. When the contest opened some months ago, it promised to be one of the most desperate political struggles of modern times. The lottery company has controlled the legislation of the state, and, confident of its power to maintain its mastery, it formulated a constitutional amendment giving it a new commission for a number of years on condition of paying to certain charities and improvements in the state the sum of $1,200,000 annually. It took the aggressive in the contest for the democratic nomination for governor, rent the party in twain, and thus presented two democratic candidates for governor—ex-Governor McEnery being the lottery candidate and Murphy J. Foster the antilottery nominee. It has long subsidized the leading newspapers of the state, held despotic control of the whole machinery of the municipal government of New Orleans, and it was insolent in its defiance of the better class of citizens of all parties who protested against this consuming shame to the state and country. Now comes the popular verdict of Louisiana in the recent elections in that state, and the first ever given adverse to the lottery leaders declaring that this stain must be obliterated from the records of a great state. At last the great lottery swindle is overthrown, and the greatest public crime that ever had the apparent sanction of law in our land must soon cease to ply its vocation to rob the multitude and enrich a few banded swindlers.



STILL AFTER BLAINE.

POLITICAL PREFERENCES.

The Chicago Times Interviews Democrats—Cleveland Leads.

Last Saturday's issue of the Chicago Times contains opinions of leading democrats in several states on what they believe should be the issues and who should be the candidate for president in the political campaign of this year. The questions put to those who were interviewed were as follows:

What should be the leading issue in the coming presidential campaign?

Should the democratic platform announce the party for radical tariff reform, or should the platform be the one on which a democratic president was elected in 1884?

Should silver be an issue or not?

Should the candidate be from the east or from the west? If from the west, whom? If from the east, whom?

The response covered two pages of the Saturday's Times. The proposition upon which the greatest unanimity of sentiment is apparent is that should the candidate be chosen from the east he should be Grover Cleveland. Hill sentiment is notably small. Senator Gorman's name is but seldom mentioned. Moreover an enormous mass of the democrats interviewed, even among those resident in western commonwealths, go beyond the proposition above formulated and declare in no uncertain tones that an eastern man should be chosen, and he should be Grover Cleveland. The western "favorite sons" may evidently rely upon their own states. Senator Palmer is the choice of a vast majority of those who speak for Illinois. Governor Boies has Iowa solidly at his back, Wisconsin does not leave Senator Vilas unmentioned, although Cleveland appears as the first choice of the democrats of the Badger state, and Indiana is for Gray.

GOV. IRA J. CHASE.

Preaches to Two Large Audiences in This City Yesterday.

The governor of Indiana, Hon. Ira J. Chase, at the invitation of Rev. J. V. Updyke, the pastor of the Christian church, came from Indianapolis Saturday evening and spent Sunday in this city, preaching in the morning at the Christian church and in the evening occupying Rev. Dr. Moffat's pulpit at the First Presbyterian church.

Both services were largely attended. The Fort Wayne Rifles marched in a body to the Christian church and occupied the front rows of seats, while the ballance of the church was crowded to the doors, many standing in the aisles and at the rear of the church.

The excellent choir of the Christian church led the singing, and, after the devotional exercises, Gov. Chase arose and commenced his sermon. The governor is a speaker of rare ability and force, and his fine appearance and pleasant face, coupled with his splendid delivery, held the immense audience interested listeners for forty minutes.

"What has become of Christianity and where can it be found?" was the theme of his discourse. He took as the foundation for his sermon the beatitudes, as mentioned in Christ's sermon on the mount. They needed no exemplification, he said. Religion was the salt of the earth and it was marching forward to the conquest of the world. He spoke of the persecutions that the Christians of early times were subjected to and the difficulties that beset the missionaries of twenty-five years ago. I have lived, he said, to see the banner of the cross carried into the dark and benighted portions of the earth and the Bible translated into many languages. I believe the world is getting better every day. The Christian of today has not the difficulties to contend with that the Christians of former times had, and there is not the sin and crime in porportion to the population, in the world that there formerly was. The spreading of Christ's religion has banished much of the sin and sorrow and the world is getting brighter and better every day.

The governor weaved many interesting reminiscences into his sermon and spoke of some incidents in reference to the early history of the church in this city.

In the evening he preached to another large audience at the First Presbyterian church, which was filled to overflowing, many standing in the aisles.

CLAUDE MATTHEWS.

Interesting Reminiscence of the Democratic State Convention.

In speaking of some of the scenes and incidents of last Thursday's democratic state convention the Indianapolis Sun has the following about our candidate for governor.

Claude Matthews was as confident of his nomination eighteen hours before it took place as he was afterwards. At 2 o'clock Thursday morning he figured his vote at 609 on the first ballot and later was sure the other forty-three would be forthcoming. When the first ballot was taken, and before the counties began to change their vote, the secretary's figures missed the number just seven. Shanklin obtained just about half of the vote he expected on the first call. Had a second ballot been taken on the governorship the Matthews vote would have been overwhelming. The counties switched into his line at a wonderful rate. The secretary's friends say the counties were in honor bound to give Nye and Niblack a complimentary vote, while they really were for Matthews. After they had performed that duty they hastened to get on the winning side.

During the excitement in the convention, when the balloting for the governorship was going on, it was almost impossible for the balcony to keep track when to applaud for their favorites. The secretary of state had many fair friends who shook their handkerchiefs for him, but they frequently applauded the wrong man. All Matthews' eyes finally, alighted upon one man down stairs. When a howl for the secretary came up this man climbed upon a chair and let his lungs out to the length of the rope. After he had been discovered, every time he climbed on the chair the gentle friends of Matthews took it as their cue, and nearly waived their 'kerchiefs into threads.

The supreme moment of the convention was when the entire house stood upon its feet and three times went raving wild over Matthews. The secretary was seated in his delegation, down the first aisle to the right of the chairman and about thirty feet from the stage. When the excitement was at its height he looked at the pictures turned toward the wall and rolled a bit of paper in his fingers. Not a muscle in his face changed, the color being just a little more pallid than when one sees him in every day life. But his heart pounded against his vest. No man was ever able to describe his feelings when 3,000 people were throwing everything loose in the air for him and filling the rest of the space with shouts. The nearest the secretary could describe it was to say that he felt, only on a larger scale, like a man when he finds a dime in an old thrown away suit of clothes.

THE LIMITED MAIL.

Will be at the Temple Wednesday Evening.

The most interesting dramatic novelty of the season will be presented at the Temple on Wednesday next, in the production of Elmer E. Nance's famous realistic railroad comedy drama, "The Limited Mail," which is pronounced by competent critics of New York, Chicago and Philadelphia the greatest triumph in stage realism of modern times. The attraction has been seen in this city and crowded the Temple to the doors.

Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of that state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and that in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful. Fifty cent bottles for sale by druggists.

Engineer Eli Cramer Laid to Rest in Lindenwood—Brief Items of Interest.

A large number of relatives and friends followed the remains of the late Eli Cramer to their last resting place, in Lindenwood, yesterday afternoon. There were no funeral services at the house and none but the relatives and most intimate friends of the deceased were at the residence. Mr. Cramer was a member of Home lodge No 342, F. and A. M., and the members of the order met the funeral procession at 1 o'clock on Calhoun street and conducted it to the Baptist church, where funeral services were held, Rev. S. A. Northorp officiating. After the sermon the casket was opened and the remains were viewed by the relatives and friends for the last time. There were a many trainmen and shopmen present, both at the church and grave. The floral contributions were beautiful.

A few changes occurred in the clerical force in the Pittsburg offices this morning. C. E. Hugh went back to his desk in Mr. Potter's office.

The Sentinel this morning received the following dispatch from Pittsburg. "Robert A. W. Pitcairn, of the Pittsburg division of the Pennsylvania railroad, in an address before the Young Men's Christian association yesterday, said he favored the abolition of Sunday trains where ever practicable, and promised to use his influence in this direction."

Saturday evening two young ladies employed at the Electric light works had a thrilling experience on the Pittsburg railroad that they will not care to repeat. These ladies live near Calhoun street, and have been in the habit of walking over the Pittsburg road in going to and from the shop. Saturday they met a freight train and stepped to another track to allow it to pass, not noticing a passenger train which came thundering along behind them. The trainmen on the freight managed to apprise the ladies of their danger just in time to prevent a horrible accident. Hereafter the ladies will keep off the track. They were badly frightened.

PUBLIC MEN SPEAK.

Opinions of Importance Freely Expressed.

Most Interesting and Valuable Facts Brought Out in an Interview by Our Correspondent.

Washington, April 25.—The interviews with various prominent men which I recently sent you as to the apparently mysterious cause of the untimely and sudden deaths among them, has aroused a great deal of excitement.

Senators, representatives and heads of departments all declare that unless some steps can be taken to avoid the killing strains of public life, few prominent men would care to run for office. Traced to its source, it has become fully apparant that there is one great cause for it all, and that cause is the wearing strains upon certain organs of the body which cause their tissues to give way, and hence bring about sickness or sudden death. I continued the investigation, which was reported yesterday, by calling upon a number of leading public men.

Hon. Daniel Lockwood, genial and whole souled, has an extensive knowledge of the public men of the country. He was well aware of the strains to which they are subjected, and the sudden deaths which have been so prevalent. "It would seem, he said, "as though there should be some way of preventing these things. Our grandfathers had family remedies that seemed to preserve health and prolong life, and it would appear as though some modern discovery should be found which would answer the same purpose for the added strains of modern life. I think if any one has such a discovery it is certainly my friend Warner with his famous Safe Cure. I know of a great many people who use it constantly, and I have in mind one gentleman connected with the Government Printing Office here who, together with his wife, has occasion to be exceedingly grateful for the restored health and strength which Warner's Safe Cure has imparted."

Hon. H. S. Greenleaf was found in the House of Representatives. He said "The exhaustions of public life are certainly very great, but also are the strains of business life, of professional life, of social life. I have personal acquaintance with Mr. Warner, the discoverer of the celebrated Safe Cure, and I consider it far superior to any or all other preparations. Certainly any article as popular as that and selling as extensively as it does, must have unusual merit."

Probably the most remarkable case of a government official brought to death's door and then rescued is that of Mr. J. Henderson, a prominent attorney of this city. In conversation with me, he said: "Ten years ago I was seized with an attack of Bright's disease. I was then at work in the treasury here. I know it was Bright's disease for several reasons. In early life I studied medicine some little time. I knew from my symptoms what my trouble was, but I was also in the hands of my physicians. How badly I became you can understand when I say my hands became bloated and actually cracked open. My limbs and body would alternately swell and collapse. I could only creep across the floor. Finally my physician said to me: 'You are at death's door with Bright's disease. You may live a few weeks, but there is absolutely no hope of your recovery.' Although I was so very sick my friends did not desert me. Numbers of them called to express their sympathy. Col. Daniel A. Grosvenor, Judge Tarbel, Rev. Dr. Rankin, Col. Robert M. Douglas—more than a hundred prominent men—extended to me their sympathy. None supposed for a moment I could ever recover. Upon the advice of Rev. Dr. Rankin, now president of the Howard university, I began the use of a preparation of which I had but little knowledge. I began to improve at once. I continued its use, nothing else, and I state to you today that I owe my life solely to Warner's Safe Cure, which rescued me from the grave after the doctors had abandoned all hope. I am certain that if men and women generally fully realized the wonderful power of this great discovery, and used it faithfully, there would be less sickness, fewer deaths, longer life and more happiness than at present."

I was greatly impressed with Mr. Wilkinson's earnestness of manner. Certain it is, that his statement is true, and that he is today in perfect health.

Senator Blackburn not only knows what wearing strains of political life are, but also of the power which the great discovery above mentioned has shown both in Washington and throughout the land. Indeed he is a living example of its efficiency.

I saw Senator W. C. Squire, Mr. H. C. Clark, of the First Auditor's Office, Captain J. G. Ball, and many others, and their statements amply confirm all I had previously learned.

Mr. Abraham L. Hahn, well known in newspaper and army circles, said: "Personally, I have used Warner's Safe Cure, and consider it the best medicine in the world for the diseases it is recommended to cure. A member of my family has also been cured after several physicians had failed to do any good."

Mr H. McNeil, a highly educated man, a graduate of a medical college, said: "I have frequently heard Mrs. Hahn mention Warner's Safe Cure, and its highly beneficial effect."

Wherever I went I found the testimony the same. It was generally admitted that the strains of public life in Washington were wearing and shortening to the life, but it was universally conceded that for overcoming these tendencies for strengthening the vitality, toning the health and prolonging the life nothing had ever been known equal to the great remedy I have above described.

Saved from Ruin.

Not His Boy.

[Jim has returned home with a city made photograph.]

Say, Jim, my son, this hain't yore fortygraff?
It is? Git out—ye make the ole man laff.
That you? Why, Jim, my boy, ye ain't in that!
Fust place, I never seen yo 'thout yer hat;
I never seen yo with yer ha'r so slick—
Mos' generally mussed like an ole hayrick.

They've libeled of ye, Jim, up thar in town.
What's yer ole clay pipe? What's yer dressin gown?
'N see them lips, Jim, kinder pu'sed, severe!
Yer smile seems thutty mile or more from here;
Yer cheeks looks shaved—not a derned bit like you—
They're sorter pink hated'd o' ha'ry blue.

I don't want that, so take the thing away;
It ain't the Jim I've knowed this many a day.
More like a city feller—kinder dude!
The blame thing reely knocks me off my food.
Yer might be made to look so, but ye see
I like ye better, Jim, jest as ye be.

These folks can paint their churches blue 'n red,
'N not a word by me'll e'er be said,
Besides the good book even, I'll not kick,
Altho' the habit makes me mighty sick;
But as for fortygraffers, Heav'n help him
Whichever gits caught changin my boy Jim!
—Harper's Magazine.

Didn't Read It.

Opie Read receives a great many letters from would be authors who wish him to read the manuscript of books they have written and give them the benefits of his experience as to the probability of its "catching on." He received such a letter a few days ago from a party named W. A. Bowen, who has written some sketches over the name of Ike Filkins. One line in Mr. Bowen's letter satisfied Mr. Read that it would be useless for him to read the work. In that line the author unwittingly put a quietus on it himself. The line was as follows.

"I have just written a book which I think will take like fire when it is out."—Chicago Press.

Fired the Gun and All.

In the Crimean war a raw recruit was told off to watch the fire of the Russian artillery and cry out to his comrades when shot, shell or rocket was fired, so that they might be prepared for it. He gave the signal, "Shot!" "shell!" "shot!" "shell!" punctually until he saw a rocket, which of course is a long, tubelike missile. It was the first he had seen, and imagining it was a cannon he yelled out: "Tare an ages, boys, the gun an all is comin! If the Rooshans are coming after it they won't lave a mother's son of us alive."—Irish Times.

The World's Fair.

Large crowds are daily visiting Chicago for the purpose of viewing the World's Fair buildings, which have commenced to assume their appearance of future greatness and beauty.

With the excellent facilities afforded by the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway, whose through trains equipped with all the conveniences of the age, daily pass our doors, the trip to Chicago consumes but a short amount of time, and is attended with many pleasures.

It will pay any persons having the time and inclination to make a trip to Chicago now, placing them in a position to better understand and enjoy the fair next year. 25-2t

Wash Dress Goods are now receiving particular attention.

The styles were never so numerous and pretty. We can excuse a customer for getting confused and finding it hard to decide, where there is such an aggregation to select from.

The Wash Bedford Cords at 10c and 12½c are very rich in appearance and make up to resemble high priced goods.

We are receiving new seasonable goods daily and invite inspection and comparison before you make your purchases.
